Center for Asia Leadership Initiatives

Welcome Message

Welcome to the Center for Asia Leadership!

It was with a leap of faith and hope for the future that we started the Center for Asia Leadership or CAL in 2014 in Boston, US. We were scholars at Harvard organizing “treks,” study tour and community service programs that brought Harvard scholars to 83 exotic locations in 34 countries throughout Asia to connect, learn and share.

Today, we are a group of not-for-profit international organizations that aims to address various leadership challenges and needs in Asia through research, teaching, fellowship, consulting, conferences, and publications.

We are truly grateful for this opportunity to help cultivate leaders of today in preparation for the better tomorrow. Join us in our endeavor to do the great er good in our community.

Our Approach

1. Harvard-developed Theories; CALI-developed Frameworks for Change

All projects and programs we manage are led by Harvard faculties and graduates who are committed to the research, teaching, consulting, fellowship, conferences, and publications as a means of promoting change.

Head Knowing	Hands Doing	Heart Being
Frameworks New & Different Ways of Thinking About Challenges & Problem-solving	Application Thorough Diagnostic Work & Generation of Creative & Realistic Solutions	Mindset Value-driven & Human-centered Change-Process Management
Practice of Leadership

2. Proven Methodologies for Future-ready Organizations

We equip leaders with the right mindset and tools/skills. They then learn when and how to make effective interventions.

Hindsight Past	Insight Present	Foresight Future
Legacies to Keep, Discard & Build	Diagnosis & Solutions	Risks to Anticipate, Opportunities to Seize

3. Methodologies Developed by Experts on Asia for Asians

We work closely with various stakeholders across Asia to conduct research and develop frameworks, tools, and practices that are relevant to the region. They are primed to help organizations in Asia form actionable insights and hone capacities for change demanded of our times.

“I never had to ‘network’ to help others.” It’s about what you can do for your community, your country.

Center for Asia Leadership

CLC is a group of nonprofit international organizations that address public needs and problems in Asia through research, development, training and publication initiatives in the areas of public leadership, entrepreneurship and education. The course of his life and various career paths, the South Korean team has been exposed to different experiences that help him identify what makes a good leader. Through CLC, he hopes to share and pass down these values as there will be a great need for leaders to impact their communities.

Good leadership, he says, is the most effective method to change throughout Asia.

Kim says “Leaders of Hong Kong have been eye-opening experiences.” “Politicians here are always willing to learn from their students, even though they have years of experience in their respective fields,” he says.

He hopes his experiences can enable the next generation and be shared across different countries. “We have many people out to study all around the world. It’s academically and financially very challenging. As a leader, we can help with the education and is really crucial by the use of the CLC Model.”

“We must identify the specific strengths that people have, and it’s good for leaders to let these people step in to contribute their expertise in their respective areas.” Kim says.

“I never really had a mentor granting up. I think I would have achieved my goals earlier if I had one. I want to be a mentor to others. I want them to trust CLC and me like a stepping stone, something they use to increase better for themselves.”

CLC’s programs have been well received, not only by the general public, but also by politicians, government officials, businessmen and top-level executives in Asia.

CLC’s operations span, it’s more sense that Center for Asia Leadership should be set up in Asia.

“We had about four offers on the table when it was time for us to respond – from Mongolia, Hong Kong, Shanghai and Asia.” Kim states. “We chose Asia because we believed it was the right time for CLC. Malaysia is a strategic and central location and is really crucial by the use of the CLC Model.”

“My goal is to turn Malaysia into the epicenter of Asia Leadership. It’s not just a
